Non-Chronological Reports

Written by YOU

	Topic title covers the whole subject.		Non-chronological reports use factual language .
	Brief introduction paragraph gives who/what/where overview.		Present tense verbs (unless it is a historical report, then it would be past tense).
	The information is organised into paragraphs .		Technical language may be explained in a glossary.
	Each category has a sub-heading .		Third person makes it impersonal.
	Some information may be in fact boxes or bullet-point lists.		Non-chronological reports have a formal tone .
	Extra details support the main points.		General language , not particular examples.

Antarctica

- Your task is to research Antarctica, and write a non-chronological report that tells people of all ages interesting information about the continent.

Research phase

- The research phase is incredibly important
- Spend 10 minutes looking at information about your chosen topic, and finding the key information you would like to inform people about.
- Write down your chosen topics (Sub-headings) on your worksheet in the four boxes.
- Write an interesting fact about each one

Information drop

- Write quick notes (can use bullet points) about each of those 4 key topics you will discuss
- Fill your box with factual information, comparisons, and interesting comments you think people would enjoy reading
