

The Big Questions

What can we do if we see something online or are shown something that makes us feel worried, upset or confused?

How can we be kind and respectful online?

Share your thoughts with a partner, then with the class.

Zip It, Block It, Flag It

A window has popped up on your laptop asking for your bank details.

Zip It, Block It, Flag It

Another gamer you play against online has asked to meet you.

Zip It, Block It, Flag It

A really disturbing and upsetting video appears on a social media site you are looking at.

Is it safe?

Social Networks

What you might not know is that social network sites have age restrictions. This is to keep younger Internet users safe.

What might younger users need protecting from?

Why might these sites not be suitable for younger people to use?

Social Networks

Social media sites for children are safe to use as the content and information on them is checked and assessed as appropriate for younger Internet users.

Sadly, on many social media sites and apps, inappropriate images, memes, videos and comments are often posted.

They are also full of adverts - many of which use false information or photoshopped images to try to sell their products.

Report It

Sometimes, people send nasty or threatening emails or messages to others. This could be texts on a mobile phone or messages on a social network site.

This is a type of bullying called cyberbullying. These messages, texts, comments or emails can be very upsetting to receive, especially if it keeps happening.

Do you know what to do when this happens?

Report it!

Report It

Sometimes, people playing online games with others or writing messages on social networks get asked for information they do not want to share or get asked to do something they do not want to do.

Do you know what to do when this happens?

Report It

Reporting what has happened to someone you trust is always the best thing to do if anything has happened online that makes you uncomfortable, or if you have seen something that upsets, worries, scares or confuses you.

You can speak to a parent or carer.

You could tell an older sibling,
an aunt or uncle.

You could tell your teacher or another adult you know and trust in school.

Report It

It is a serious crime to abuse or threaten others online and it needs to be reported.

If adults ask children to send photos or videos of themselves or ask them to meet up, it needs to be reported. This is not OK.

You can report incidents that are serious like this to CEOP. This stands for Child Exploitation and Online Protection.

CEOP will help anyone who has experienced and reports online abuse or is worried about the way someone is communicating with them online.

Be Kind Online

We all have a responsibility to be kind and respectful online.

We might not always agree with comments but we don't need to be rude.

We never post comments about someone that would make that person upset.

We never share photos or videos of someone without their permission.

Be Kind Online

How can we always be kind online?

Remember the golden rules...

Treat others as you wish to be treated.

If you don't have any kind
words to say,
don't say anything at all.

Be Kind Online

Have a look at the following examples of messages or posts online. Discuss with your partner how they would make someone feel reading them and try to explain how they are unkind or disrespectful.

Did you know that new kid has two mums?

Weirdo!

What Do You Think?

Everyone has different views about the Internet. As we have discussed, there are pros and cons to social media and there are risks we need to be aware of when we are using devices to go online.

We are going to be having a class debate today, which will get us really thinking about different views and opinions relating to the Internet, the way in which it is used and how it can be both helpful and harmful.

Debate the following question...

Should we ban social media?

Remember to explain your thoughts and feelings carefully and respectfully.
